

PHILIP RYDER DUNN

Thursday, November 2, 2023

Studio Scenes

www.PhilipRyderDunn.com

INSTAGRAM

POETRY CHAPBOOK

YOUTUBE

November! Welcome new people - so glad to have recent additions. :-)

This latest finished piece is 18" X 24", and it's quite luminous in person. I'll be having an IRL studio tour event soon for a small group of collectors and art enthusiasts (stay tuned).

Fish, banking, classic lobbies, and dreamy floods have been a bit of an obsession lately. The light, depth and color in these types of scenes really commands a room.

Detail . . .

These flowers were a speed test of sorts. I tried to see if quick painting produced worthwhile outcomes. It worked, methinks. :-)

This vacation dandelion scene is almost done.

Finally, I come from a military family (USAF), and there's been some aviation art interest lately. This one above just finished. It gets a gloss varnish and black floater frame next.

That's a WB-57F in front with my dad in the cockpit (in the original reference photo) and a C-130 in the background. The location is Yakota AFB, Tokyo, Japan (circa 1968).

SOLD paintings here.

Be sure to reply if you have ideas for commissioned pieces.

And please forward this PDF if you have friends that are interested in local art (or distant art).

artist@philipryderdunn.com

(949) 244-9440 send a text or use an actual voice!

Cheers,

P.S. These are available for sale.

Say the word, and I can send different lighting, detail, dimensions, etc. And please reply if you'd like to join the in-person event in early December.

